ARRIVED .- Colonel Charles Ewing, great pleasure in showing them the Stinchcomb, Major Butterfield and found on page 794, Part I, 1860-61. Captain Ogden, of the 17th, Captain Wiseman, of the 46th, Captain Henley, of the -th, and Lient. Butterfield, of the 114th, arrived on Taesday last. Captain James W. Stinchcomb at Home.

It gives us pleasure to announce that Captain James W. Stincheomb is now at home, for the purpose of taking charge of the quota of drafted men to be assigned to the gallant 17th. During -his stay of 8 or 10 day, perhaps longer, the people of old Fairfield will have an opportunity to hear him at different places. On Tuesday night, at the Court House, which was filled and overflowing, he made one of the most interesting speeches we have yet heard. It was the off-hand, out-spoken, straight-forward talk of a gallant soldier. He said that the soldiers knew Gate City says that S. S. THE HARVEST BELL E.

BE A. T. HARDE, Twas Haryest time, and the yellow grain Was falling first, as the resper attnde Across the field and then batic again, As I jogged along the dusty road.

The stout binders benf los to the ground To clasp the alicaves with a golden band; The squale in frightened pairs flew round The noisy field, and sought unfer land.

The trembling wild roblit, poor and lank, From his hiding place was forced to start; Hopped through a fewer down a brambled bank, With ears erect and quick beating heart.

The barn-yard fowls sountered here said there, In search of the scuttered grain that fell ; Straightened their necks, as borns on the sir, Came the glad sound of the dinner bell.

They pray'd, according to His word, And give the glory to the Lord. III. Thanks to the Lord, the angel band Sweet echo from the hear'nly land:

There's joy above and joy below, That brothers' blood not long shall flow. IV. Thanks to the Lord, the soldiers sing, As they battle conquering: They own old Israel's Lord who warr'd,

As now, to crush each rebel horde. Thanks to the Lord, the glorious fight Is wag'd for God, for Man, for Right: For Precdom brighter than before, To animate each foreign shore.

Thanks to the Lord, each patriot beart Has learn'd from Washington his part. With no foul traiter blot of shame To blast his own or childrens' name. VII.

Thanks to the Lord, we'll true His might Though Europe with the South unite: If He is for its, all the earth Can't crush the land of Preedom's birth. VIII.

Thanks to the Lord, both night and day, In public and in private way, For victories past, and those to come. That soon shall seal the traitors' doom! R. E. H. LEVERING. Thanksgiving Day, Aug. 6, 1851.
